Q: 1

Reference to context

Reference:

These lines have been taken from the poem "Ozymandias" written by P.B Shelley.

Context:

Ozymandias is an ironical poem which teaches it's readers that a man's feelings of superiority is only an illusion. One must never forget that however great one is in life, death is merciless and brings all things to an end.

Explanation:

In these lines the poet admires the sculptor for making such an expressive sculpture. The sculptor made a very life like sculpture of the king and the expressions were accurately made. It shows what the king stands for in life. But nothing is immortal in life, ~~weak~~ weather in real life or in art. These lines tell us that pride hath a fall. No matter however one maybe great in life, one has to face destruction.

Moral Story

"A friend in need is a friend indeed"

Friendships are the hardest things in this world to explain. But if you don't learn the meaning of friendship, you really have not learned anything. Through thick and thin, ups and down your true friends are always around.

There lived two close friends in a village and they were fond of travelling. One day they went to see the natural beauty of forests and started to walk along the path. They were so busy admiring the beauty of the forest that they did not realise, they had entered the deep forest where there are wild animals.

One of them knew how to climb a tree and the other one didn't. All of a sudden, they saw a bear coming towards them and they got frightened.

One friend said, "Dear friend I will Climb the tree as you don't know how to climb the tree, so you must run away." The other friend got very disappointed but he knew the bear doesn't eat the dead so he fell on the ground like a dead person.

The bear smelt the body of the lying friend and thought of it as the dead body so he did not injure him and went away.

The friend saw everything from the tree so he came down and asked his friend that, "What did the bear whisper into your ear?" The friend replied,

"Bear told me a friend in need is a friend indeed"

At this, the false friend felt embarrassed and apologize for his mistakes.
