Question No: 1

Reference:

These lines have been taken from the poem "Ozymandias" by Percy Bysshe Shelley.

Context:

Ozymandias is a ironical poem which teaches its readers that a man's feelings of superiority is only a illusion and deception. One must never forget that however great one is in life.

Explanation:

This stanza reflects the fleeting nature of power and the lasting impact of art. The ~~sea~~ sculpture captures the ruler's pride and ambition, preserved in stone long after his reign. This "The hand that mocked" suggests the artist's subtle critique, while the "heart that led" highlights the ruler's passion. The inscription, "Osman Diaz, King of Kings," boldly proclaims eternal glory, yet it contrasts with the inevitable decay of time, ~~emphasizing~~ emphasizing the impermanence of human achievements.

Story Writing

The Bear and the Friends.

One day, two Friends, Alex and Ben, were walking through a forest. Suddenly, a big bear came from behind the trees. Both were scared.

Alex quickly climbed a tree to save himself, leaving Ben alone. Ben didn't know what to do. He remembered hearing that bears don't attack dead bodies. Thinking fast, he lay flat on the ground and held his breath, pretending to be dead.

This bear came close to Ben, sniffed him, and walked away, thinking he wasn't alive. After the bear left, Alex climbed down the tree.

He smiled nervously and asked, "What did the bear whisper in your ear?"

Ben replied, "It told me to stay away from from friends who leave me in danger."

Alex felt ashamed and apologized. He ~~from~~ promised never to abandon Ben again.

Moral:

A friend in need is a friend indeed.
