QUESTION: 1

Reference:-

These lines have been taken from the poem "Ozymandias" by Percy Bysshe Shelley.

CONTEXT:-

Ozymandias is an ironical poem which teaches its reader that a man's feelings of superiority is only an illusion and deception. One must never forget that however great one is in life, death is merciless and brings all luxuries of life to an end.

EXPLANATION:-

In these lines the poet admires the sculptor for making such an expressive sculpture. The sculptor made a very life like sculpture of the king and has captured the expressions very accurately. The poet has conveyed in these lines that the sculptor tried to keep the king and what he stands for alive.

"TIME IS GREAT LEVELER"

But nothing in life is immortal, whether in real life or in art. These lines tell us that pride hath a fall, however great one may be ultimately has to end one day.

"Death Is An Ultimate Reality Of Life"

The broken sculpture of Ozymandias and the pedestal state the fact that however great one may be ultimately has to end one day in life and has to face destruction."

"Pride Hath A Fall"

QUESTION: 2

"The Bear And The Friends"

Friendship is the hardest thing in the world to explain. But if you have not learned the meaning of friendship, you really have not learned anything. Through thick and thin, up and down, your true friends are always around.

There lived two close friends in a village and were very fond of travelling. One day they went to a forest to see the natural beauty and walking along the path of the forest. They were so spell bound by the excitement of the forest that they even did not notice that they had entered into the deep forest.

Suddenly they noticed that they had lost their way. They knew it very well that the forest was abode of various wild animals. So, they promised to one another that they would never leave each other in times of danger.

One friend knew how to climb on a tree but the other did not. Both started walking through the jungle and searching the way to get out. All of sudden, they saw a bear coming towards them and both got frightened.

One friend said, "Dear friend, I will climb up a tree. As you don't know how to climb, your bellies run away". The other friend became very disappointed hearing this. But he knew that a bear doesn't eat a dead body. So, finding no other way, he capitalized the idea and fell flat on the ground like a dead person.

When he guessed that the bear was just beside him, he stopped breathing. The bear snelt the body of the lying friend and thought him to be a dead body. So, it did not injure him and went away gently.

The friend on the tree saw everything. When the bear went away, he got down from the tree. He went to his friend and asked him eagerly - "Dear friend, what did the bear whisper into your ear?" In reply the friend said "Bear told me that a friend in need is a friend indeed."

At this, the false friend embarrassed and apologized for his mistake.

Moral:-

A Friend in Need is a Friend Indeed.
